

Course Withdrawal Procedure

1. Overview

Course withdrawal refers to the official process of dropping a course after the add/drop period has ended. This policy distinguishes between withdrawals before and after the academic deadline, and outlines the GPA and financial implications of each.

2. Add/Drop Period

During the first 10 business days of the semester (the add/drop period), students may add or drop courses without academic penalty. Dropped courses during this period do not appear on the transcript and tuition is fully refunded minus any applicable fees.

3. Withdrawal with 'W' Grade

After the add/drop period and through the 10th week of the semester, students may withdraw from a course by submitting a Course Withdrawal Form to the Registrar's Office. A grade of 'W' (Withdrawal) is recorded on the transcript. The 'W' grade does not affect GPA but does count as an attempted credit hour for SAP purposes.

After the 10th week, withdrawals are only permitted in cases of documented extraordinary circumstances and require Dean's approval (Late Withdrawal).

4. Financial Implications

Tuition refunds for withdrawals after the add/drop period follow the Tuition Refund Schedule (ACAD-WD-003). Students receiving financial aid should consult the Financial Aid Office before withdrawing, as aid recalculation may result in a balance owed.

5. Complete Withdrawal from the University

Students who wish to withdraw from all courses must contact the Office of Student Affairs and complete the University Withdrawal Form (Form SA-03). Students should also meet with the Financial Aid Office and Housing Office. All financial obligations must be settled before a formal separation is processed.
