

Student Disciplinary Procedures

1. Overview

This document describes the procedures followed when a student is alleged to have violated the Student Code of Conduct. These procedures are designed to be fair, thorough, and respectful of all parties' rights.

2. Notice of Allegation

Within 10 business days of initiating a formal investigation, the Office of Student Affairs will send a written Notice of Allegation to the accused student (the Respondent). The notice will include: the specific provision(s) of the Code alleged to have been violated, a summary of the factual basis for the allegation, the date and time of an initial meeting, and information about the student's rights.

3. Student Rights During Proceedings

- Right to be presumed not responsible unless found responsible through the process
- Right to review all evidence gathered during the investigation
- Right to present a written statement and evidence on their behalf
- Right to have a support person (advisor, friend, family member, or attorney in cases involving potential suspension or dismissal) present at any meeting
- Right to appeal the outcome per the Appeals Process Guidelines (STUD-DIS-003)

4. Resolution Pathways

Minor violations may be resolved through an Administrative Resolution, an informal process between the student and a conduct officer. Cases involving potential suspension or dismissal proceed to a formal Student Conduct Hearing Board composed of 3 faculty and 2 student representatives.

All decisions are made using a Preponderance of Evidence standard — whether it is more likely than not that the student violated the Code.

5. Sanctions

If a student is found responsible, the conduct officer or Hearing Board may impose one or more sanctions as described in the Sanctions and Penalties Policy (STUD-DIS-004). Sanctions are designed to be educational and proportional to the severity of the violation.
