Exam Scheduling Conflict Policy

1. Types of Scheduling Conflicts

An exam scheduling conflict occurs when a student has two or more exams scheduled at overlapping times, or when a student has three or more final exams scheduled within a 24-hour period. Both types of conflicts entitle the student to a resolution.

2. Resolving Simultaneous Exams

When two exams are scheduled at exactly the same time, the student must notify the Registrar's Office within 24 hours of discovering the conflict. The Registrar will contact both instructors and determine which exam will be rescheduled based on course enrollment, instructor flexibility, and availability of testing facilities.

The rescheduled exam must occur within 2 business days of the original exam time.

3. Three-Exams-in-One-Day Rule

Students with three or more final exams within any 24-hour period may request that one exam be rescheduled. The student must file a conflict form with the Registrar's Office no later than 3 weeks before the final exam period. The Registrar will coordinate with the relevant departments to reschedule the middle exam.
