

Examination Accommodations Policy

1. Policy Statement

Westbrook University is committed to providing equal access to academic assessments for all students. Students with documented disabilities may receive reasonable examination accommodations through the Office of Disability Services (ODS).

2. Registering with ODS

To receive accommodations, students must first register with ODS and submit documentation of their disability prepared by a qualified healthcare provider. ODS will evaluate the documentation and issue an Accommodation Letter specifying approved accommodations. Students are encouraged to register with ODS at the beginning of their first semester.

3. Common Exam Accommodations

- Extended time (time-and-a-half or double time) for exams
- Reduced-distraction testing environment
- Use of a computer or assistive technology during written exams
- Permission for breaks during extended exams
- Oral examination in place of written format
- Large-print or screen-reader-accessible exam materials
- Scribe or dictation software for written responses

4. Student Responsibilities

Students must present their current semester Accommodation Letter to each instructor within the first 2 weeks of class. Accommodations are not retroactive — they apply only from the date the Accommodation Letter is received by the instructor.

Students who need to schedule an exam at the Testing Center with accommodations must submit a Testing Center Scheduling Form at least 5 business days before the exam.

5. Instructor Responsibilities

Instructors must honor all accommodations listed in valid ODS Accommodation Letters. Instructors who have concerns about a requested accommodation may consult with ODS but may not unilaterally deny an accommodation. Failure to provide approved accommodations may constitute a violation of the Americans with Disabilities Act.
